PUBLIC SPEAKING!

Let our readers, and everybody else, remember that there will be interesting speaking here on Monday, County Court day; and on Friday night the 11th of June, there will be a GRAND RALLY of the friends of the South, in this place. Turn out on both occasions, and move on the good word to a glorious consummation.

YOUR TICKET!

BEAR IT IN MIND, voters of Montgomery, the 31 day of June next you are to exercise the high prerogative of again exercising the elective franchise. Let your tickets have upon them—

SEPARATION.
REPRESENTATION.

AN URGENT REQUEST.—We are sorry to have to say that but few comparatively of those who are owing us, have responded to our call upon them; and we again ask those who have not done so, to do it now. We must have the money due us, or we shall be compelled to give up business! We have been very indulgent to our friends, and now, when we are compelled to call upon them they should feel honorably bound to pay us, and we hope that they will. As we have before urged, the sum due from each is small, and the payment of it would not be felt by them. Now we appeal to every one who owes us anything to bring, or send, in the amount, within the next week. Send the whole amount due, if possible, but if you cannot do that, send a part of it—all you can. We are in earnest friends. We must have money! We have to pay cash down, for everything we buy, and are therefore compelled to collect.

We shall commence, with our next issue, to strike from our list all who shall not have paid up; yet earnestly hope that we shall be forced thus to leave out but a few names.

IDAHO SPRINGS.

This watering place is romantically situated, three miles from town, and the proprietor has added greatly to the former means of accommodation.—The medicinal properties of the water have been well tested, and the health of the country, the fine society afforded by the neighborhood, and the creature comforts furnished by an agreeable and energetic host hold out strong inducements to the invalid and pleasure-seeker. The northern places of resort upon which so much southern money has been lavished, are now closed against the South, and it is to be hoped that the patronage of its wealthy citizens will be as liberally bestowed upon points within the Confederate limits. Give Idaho a fair trial, and with its patronage, its comforts will keep pace.

IN A BAD CONDITION.—We notice several mud holes on the Charlotte road, within the city limits, that are a serious impediment to travel. A few cart-loads of earth and broken stone would fill them up, and make the road good. Will our city authorities attend to them? We hope so.

PAY UP!—The city council offer a discount of ten per cent. on all taxes paid in cash prior to the 10th of June; seven on all paid before the 1st of July; and five on all before the 10th. This is done to induce early payments to meet obligations of the city falling due in July.

Bus TRIPS.—The travel over our railroad is immense. Every day the trains come crowded and jammed with people. One day this week the train had to hitch on one or two extra cars. They brought up that trip nearly three hundred passengers, and the next day nearly four hundred.

A large number of these were Northern towns making for that glorious land of free thought, free press and free speech! now blessed with Lincoln's mild rule!

LITERARY HONORS.—Although the usual public examination of the pupils of the Female Academy was not held, this term, still the diploma of the institution was awarded to the young ladies who had formed the graduating class.

The exercises on this occasion were entirely private. The Trustees of the Academy, alone, were there, having been invited, and of them there was but a slim attendance. After the young ladies had read their essays, President Hamilton presented to each, the diploma of the Academy.

The young ladies who thus graduated were: Miss MARGARET HITE, Miss LOU ELLER ANDERSON, Miss MARTIN PERDUE, Miss ALICE RICE, Miss OMBELIA PERKINS, Miss NANNIE KERRER, Miss HATTIE ELLIOTT, and Miss NANNIE COLE.

These fair debutantes upon life's stage, were perhaps, have liked that their honors were more public, but there is a distinction above diplomas, which we hope they will now win—that of being worthy of them!

Geo. D. MARTIN, Esq.—We are pleased to learn that Geo. D. Martin, of Clarksville, has been appointed by the Governor, a special Assistant Commissary General, for the State, to be located at Clarksville.—Union & American.

Mr. Martin is instructed by Gov. Harris to open a house for contributions from the patriotic friends of the adjoining counties and southern Kentucky. Let all who can spare provisions of any kind accede to the support of an Army. Come promptly forward to the relief of your gallant volunteers! Mr. Martin is now ready to receive provisions, at the old stand of Fall & Turnley.

BARRER STILL.—The Louisville Journal at first advocated a neutrality, for Kentucky, that should forbid and resist the marching of either Northern or Southern troops into, or through her territory, but now says it may become necessary for Lincoln to send troops through Kentucky, to put down the rebels in Tennessee! Go on Journal! show your full black hand!

Flag Presentation.

The following heroic and pathetic speech was made by Mrs. E. P. Moody, on the presentation of a beautiful flag to the patriotic members of the "Red River Volunteers." It is published by request of many citizens in that vicinity, and with pleasure do we lay the warm hearted porings of the Southern ladies before our readers:

GENTLEMEN VOLUNTEERS: It is with confidence that I undertake to discharge a duty imposed upon me by my lady associates. A consciousness of my inability, impels me to bespeak your most generous indulgence.

Let me presume that your liberality will allow me to refer to that once proud and happy Union, whose domains extended from the rocky banks of the St. Lawrence, to the boiling Gulf of Mexico; from the briny caps of the Atlantic to the golden shores of the Pacific. Behold her in her once proud splendor, carrying the arts and sciences to their ne plus ultra; an honored Republic; the mistress of the world, whose sword when raised to resent an insult, caused kings and queens to tremble for the safety of their thrones; an enemy to tyrants and a friend to the oppressed. But to-day, where is her splendor, her purity and her glory? obliterated and gone for ever! Gone, glimmering through the dream of things that were.

A school boys tale—the wonder of an hour. Corruption wended her way into her legislative halls, usurpation reached forth her prisoning hand and forced out the lovers of liberty. Yes, the American flag robbed of its purity by the baneful Abolition demons, now lies in her tomb close by the side of those who bore her triumphant through the dark adversities of 1776, and can but say

How gallant Eagle, thou wert buried in light.
God rest thee in heaven, lost star of our night.

Eleven of the states, formerly the strongest pillars of the United States, animated by the same ardent, patriotic and incorruptible spirit that actuated the immortal heroes of the revolution, have declared themselves independent of the Northern Government, in whose Presidential chair sits a villain, surrounded by his faithful tyrants, and have formed a Republic styled the Confederate States of America.

We, the friends and relatives of you, the Red River Volunteers, have procured for you a banner which reflects the nationality of the Confederate States. I beg you, gentlemen, for the sake of your lady friends to accept this symbol of gratitude to you, who have so nobly vindicated your willingness to protect us, whom nature has seen it to make incapable of self protection, you having done us the honor to receive it, gentlemen, we can cheerfully say

Flag of the brave, thy folds shall fly,
The sign of hope, and triumph high.

Go on ye sons of the brave, with an onward progressive step, wend your way to the shores of the Potomac, and plant your selves upon the tomb of the Father of his Country, with your glittering bayonets pointed at the enemy's breast, seek a compensation for the injustice done to your Sunny South.

Unfold those colors, say to the minions of the North, in the name of Tennessee, who has so long clung to the Union, that she is rallying with her chivalry, and marshalling her gallant hosts for the conflict, that she is yet the Volunteer State, and her heroic blood flows as richly in her veins, as when her sons drove back the invader from New Orleans and mounted the grey walls of Monterey. If you send your mercenaries to our State, we will, in the spirit of the Irish martyr, meet you on the border with sword in hand. We will meet you with all the destructive furies of war, ready to immolate ourselves upon our country's altar, and if compelled to retire before superior forces, will dispute every inch of ground, burn every blade of grass, and the last intrenchment of Southern Rights shall be our graves.

After which, the following reply was made in behalf of the company, by Lieut. R. A. Barnes.

LADIES:—In behalf of the Red River Volunteers, I gladly receive the proffered gift. Though unaccustomed to speaking, I may fail to thank you in burning words of eloquence, yet I hope you will make the necessary allowance for one who stands before you, with feelings that would naturally prompt him to be silent. Feelings which it has never been my lot to experience before, and which I hope may never be experienced by you.

In presenting the banner, you spoke of the once glorious but now severed Union; that Union which was once the pride of every American heart, but which is now ruined forever. And what has brought on this state of affairs? A mean, low and grovelling desire to interfere and meddle with our institutions. The people of the North have gone on step by step encroaching upon our rights, until the South could stand it no longer, and as the last resort, have appealed to the sword.

Ladies, this Revolution is not unlike the old Revolution, in which our fore-fathers engaged, they were once happy as English citizens, and no doubt loved their country as well as we once loved the Union. No doubt they were as proud of the old red flag of England, as we were of the stars and stripes.

But when that flag was made the emblem by which they were to be enslaved, they tore it down and trampled it under foot, though they left a tear drop in remembrance of the past. How thank you it was with America, only Washington, he who had led on his brave Virginians from one victory to another under that old red flag, think you he gave it up without a sigh? I tell you no, he gazed upon it as upon some cherished friend who, in a reckless hour, had bound him for years.—We in like manner have torn down the Stars and Stripes of which we were wont to be proud in days past, and have now reared the flag of Southern Liberty, around which all patriotic hearts will cling; under which we have enlisted to fight for the rights and liberties of the Southern people.

In conclusion, let me again return the heart-felt thanks of the company for the beautiful banner, and let me assure you ladies that it shall never trail in the dust. That no enemy of Southern Rights shall ever capture it from the field as a trophy of victory. I assure you that each and every member of this company, when in the hour of battle, will gaze upon this flag, which will cause him to remember from whom he received it. Such a remembrance will strengthen his purpose, and nerve his arm for new deeds of valor.

HIGH-HANDS OUTRAGE.—From our friend Ben. F. Egan, we learn the following particulars of the recent capture, by the Abolition forces quartered at Evansville, of Mr. H. L. Crassey, agent for the Kanawha Saline Company. This gentleman was descending the Ohio river with two flat boats laden with 1892 barrels of Salt, destined for the Cumberland river. At Evansville the Hessians seized his boat, detained the crew as prisoners 48 hours, confiscated his salt, and set him adrift without a cent. The salt belonged to Col. Wm. Dickinson a Virginian.

STIMULATING ONGUENT,

For the Whiskers and Hair.

The subscribers take pleasure in announcing to the citizens of the United States that they have obtained the Agency for, and are now enabled to offer to the American public, the above justly celebrated and world-renowned article.

The Stimulating Ointment

is prepared by Dr. C. P. Bellingham, an eminent physician of London, and is warranted to bring out a thick set of in from three to six weeks. This article is the only one of the kind used by the French, and in London and Paris it is in universal use.

It is a beautiful, economical, soothing, yet stimulating compound, acting as if by magic upon the roots, causing a beautiful growth of luxuriant hair. If applied to the scalp, it will cure baldness, and cause to spring up in place of the bald spots a fine growth of new hair. Applied according to directions, it will turn coarse or towy hair into, and restore gray hair to its original color, leaving it soft, smooth, and flexible. The "Ointment" is an indispensable article in every gentleman's toilet, and after one week's use they would not for any consideration be without it.

The subscribers are the only Agents for the article in the United States, to whom all orders must be addressed.
